St. John's Catholic Church, Front Royal, Va.

SAINT JOHN'S ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH was the immediate results of the death of John Carrell Jenkins of Company G Second Maryland Brigade of the Confederate Army who died on October 17, 1861 during the war between the States. In fulfillment of a promise which John Carrell Jenkins had made earlier, his family decided to build a church at the location where he was fatally wounded. The cornerstone was laid 1883 and was dedicated to God, September 7, 1884.
